

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A shower head comprising a pair of plates, for dispensing and closing, directly facing each other relative to an axial direction. A seal is directly arranged and pinched in compression between the plates so as to sealingly delimit with the plates a fluid collecting chamber. The shower head is especially thin, inexpensive to manufacture and to assemble.